

LIDO

take me to the water

The word 'lido' means 'beach' in Italian. It was adopted in Britain in the 1930s with the opening of hundreds of open-air swimming pools.

Accessible foreign travel spelled the end for many of these 'beaches'. The pleasure of outdoor swimming and the allure of European culture has led to a revival.

LIDO Bristol, however, is like no other. Built in 1849 as a public bath, it is now a heated outdoor pool, spa, café, tapas bar and restaurant – a city sanctuary with a deckchair here and a sunshade there.

From breast-stroke at breakfast, through to a dip at dusk, the water's warm and the atmosphere is chilled – a nice slice of continental life.

LIDO restaurant

Southern European and Middle Eastern food from the kitchen that never sleeps. Behind the scenes we wood bake our sourdough, lovingly make the cakes and cultivate fresh yogurt. All of it is based on the freshest produce, carefully sourced from local suppliers. It's a real restaurant, in a refreshingly relaxed environment.

open: every day, 12–3pm
+ Monday to Saturday, 6–10pm
menus: www.lidobristol.com

poolside café and tapas bar

Breakfast until 11.30. Tapas from noon until late. Freshly baked cakes all afternoon. Shouldn't you be at work!

open: Monday to Saturday, 8am–11pm
+ Sunday, 9am–6pm

the water

The contrast in temperatures between the air (fresh), the water (warm), the steam-room (steamy) and the hot tub (hot), is very invigorating.

You'll have an appetite at the end of it.

open to non-members: 1–4pm,
Monday to Friday, or see our swim and eat packages.

LIDO water is heated to 21–25°C.

LIDO treatments

Some spas are pretty stressful, with their etiquette and their rules. Not the LIDO. Just chat to one of our therapists, say what type of massage you want, or tell them which bit's aching. After your treatment you can relax in the LIDO tea room.

We use LIDO oils and scrubs for LIDO massages. Whether it's in the spa or the restaurant – everything is made by us or specially for us.

massage menu

LIDO treatments last 60 minutes and are £60 per person unless otherwise stated. If you've never had a massage before, we recommend you start with this one...
